

Hey Los Angeles, Put Some Gay In Your Day

- Home
- Fashion
- Gadgets
- Lifestyle
- Culture
- House
- Dining

Now with 20% more fab.

Los Angeles 02.06.2009

Love Over The Borderline

We're helping you get your citywide game on

When we venture outside of our 10-block WeHo or Silver Lake comfort zone, we become Helen Keller, blindly navigating an alien terrain, pepper spray gripped tightly in our fist.

But sometimes a girl needs a little something (or a big something) exotic. We'll get a wild hair up our booty (which we promptly shave) and browse the Pasadena M4M ads. If the cruising is successful, we'll be in need of a romantic, gay-friendly meeting spot.

Luckily, we've discovered a few enchanting cross-city restaurants that get us in the mood with more than just their drink lists.

The Healthy Homo

Madonna may have moved onto a salmon-only diet, but we're still following her macrobiotic phase.

Helping us stick to this diet beyond the borderline of WeHo is Seed, newly opened in Venice. Not only does the restaurant shun non-stick pans and use locally-grown organic ingredients, Seed also hosts neighborhood cleanups each Sunday, providing a meal for participants afterwards.

For a place so angelic, the downright sinful (but vegan) coconut mousse is our main attraction, and Madonna's favorite.

The Boozy Bottom

More and more trophy gays are moving downtown. Possessing knowledge of a one-of-a-kind restaurant will keep you on top (or bottom).

Bar C may be hidden amongst the flashy lights of Little Tokyo, but it's worth revealing. Though the restaurant's small plates and fondue (such as the decadent seafood fondue) are extraordinary, we're distracted by Bar C's unparalleled wine list. It doesn't take more than a few glasses of the exceptional Far Niente Cab before we melt into the seductive red booths.

The Tapas Top

A stone's skip from top-heavy Silver Lake is often-overlooked Pasadena. Bar Celona just might be the way to dive right into the city of roses, before diving into your date.

We love this Tapas joint because they know how large our appetite is. Bar Celona's complex menu offers more than small plates, such as a 12 oz. rib eye steak with a flavorful gallego sauce.

But, surprise, surprise, it's the restaurant's healthy Martini list (we adore the Dino Martini!) that helps keep us in tip-tapas shape.

Seed

1604 Pacific Avenue, Venice

(310) 396-1604

www.seedkitchen.com

Bar C (pictured)

428 E. 2nd Street, Little Tokyo, Downtown Los Angeles

(213) 628-8877

www.barc.biz

Bar Celona

46 E. Colorado Boulevard, Pasadena

(626) 405-1000

www.barcelonapasadena.com